In 2023, we served a record number of families seeking safety and healing, while expanding our programs and services.

Our TeleCare program provides free health services to adults and children across two counties. Our second violence prevention conference brought 185 people together to learn and plan. We kept our community informed through dozens of events (webinars, meetings, tabling, and a new community college class). A new website and bus ad campaign helped raise awareness about restraining orders and resources countywide.

Very helpful in helping me find my options after I left my home to avoid the further conflict with my wife.

You don't know how grateful I am, I do not know the language, culture and resources. Thanks to the center I now have a safe place to stay and food for my children.

The people at the center are extremely caring and nice. They helped calm me down with my situation and also connected me with other programs that have greatly helped me.

Serving the community 2023

Long-term safety means families have the resources they need to thrive independently. Our client programs help survivors of all ages gain skills and knowledge, from physical safety and emotional resilience to leadership, financial literacy and successful job-seeking. Our community programs aim to build change by sharing transformative information and preventive strategies.
